Regus Opens New Business Centre in Tallinn, Estonia

Flexible workspaces bring new opportunities to local and global businesses

TALLINN ESTONIA – OCTOBER 12, 2009 – Regus, the leading provider of innovative workspace solutions, today announces the opening of its first business centre in Estonia. Located in Tallinn, Estonia's capital and largest city, the new centre complements Regus' worldwide network of more than 1,000 locations, and creates exciting new business opportunities for companies of all types and sizes.

As the world of work becomes increasingly mobile and unpredictable, Regus business centres, such as the new Tallinn location, offer flexible alternatives to the traditional office lease. Providing high quality, fully furnished office space and meeting rooms with no capital commitment, Regus helps clients significantly reduce their real estate costs and stay focused on their core business.

"Estonia, and Tallinn particularly, continues to establish itself as an important centre for business in the Baltic Sea region," said Garry Gürtler, Regus regional general manager for Central and Eastern Europe. "Regus' workplace solutions make it easier and more cost-effective for companies to seize the opportunities here, whether it's a local entrepreneur who needs a more professional office, or a multi-national company requiring a strategic outpost in Estonia."

A member of the European Union bordered by Russia to the East and Latvia to the South, Estonia has become known as the bridge between Eastern and Western Europe. The country maintains strong trading relationships with the United Kingdom, Germany, Finland, and other EU countries. And with a population of more than 400,000, the capital city of Tallinn is Estonia's industrial, political and cultural nucleus.

"With relatively low costs and flexible business regulations, Estonia has much to offer companies seeking to position themselves for an economic rebound," said Gürtler.

"Regus helps companies take advantage of those conditions, sharpening their competitiveness by creating a leaner, more agile organisation."

The Regus centre in Tallinn is located in the recently completed Metro Plaza building, which sits at the heart of the city astride the modern downtown and medieval Old Town districts. Easily accessible and close to most major employers in the city, the Regus centre offers prestigious Class-A office space, meeting rooms, and a videoconferencing studio available by the hour. The centre is fully equipped with copiers, fax machines, and Internet access, and is supported by a bi-lingual administrative staff.

Moreover, benefits for Regus clients extend far beyond the local office. Through virtual offices or in-person visits, clients can take advantage of Regus business centres in more than 75 countries, ensuring they'll have an office whenever and wherever they need it.
